Pumpkin Show Ready To Go

The Lord willin' and the cricks don't raise, it will be a gay old town come Wednesday.

But the day before was a different story for Tuesday in Circleville was a day historians could write down as a mad, disjointed scramble for anxious, exhausted people.

It was the last day before the big day—opening day of Circleville's 42nd annual Pumpkin Show.

Show officials were dashing helter-skelter throughout downtown Circleville making last-minute preparations for this city's big street festival.

They had been running pell-mell since Saturday when the spirit began to move, plans on paper were forced to start taking tangible shape. They had put in sunup-to-midnight hours and the job, as Tuesday's sun headed toward the horizon, still was not done.

Many a loose string would need tying by show-opening time at 2:30 Wednesday.

But that was the way of the Pumpkin Show.

ROBERT COLVILLE, Mr. Pumpkin Show himself, often opined that "this whole shindig would collapse if we had a high-powered organizational setup."

The show runs on its own, miraculous power—whither bound no one knows and few care since the ultimate objective is always reached—a bigger and better show than the previous year.

In their rush to line up the last detail, show officials kept an eye on the sky—the weather man would have a lot to say about the Pumpkin Show. Not that the weather could possibly call the whole thing off, but it might cut down attendance by 50,000-75,000.

Old Man Weatherman indicated Tuesday he would give his blessing to the gala affair.

Police Set Up 'No Parking' Zones For Week

Police Chief William F. McCrady laid down the law Tuesday on restricted Circleville parking areas during Pumpkin Show week.

The chief warned motorists he would "tolerate very little nonsense" about parking this year, a subject which has been a thorn in his side during previous Pumpkin Shows.

"Cars parked in the restricted areas designated will be towed away by a wrecker," warned the Chief, "and the owner will have to explain why he found it 'necessary' to park there before he escapes without fine."

A parking ban in the uptown district was in effect Tuesday, extending on Court street from Mound to High streets and on Main street from Western Avenue to Washington street.

Pinkney and Watt streets are to be closed off Wednesday, to be restricted until Sunday morning.

OTHER PARKING ban will be at Circleville high school, East Corwin street to be restricted Wednesday night from Court to Pickaway street for the band festival.

The Corwin street playground lot will be reserved for high school busses transporting bands. The bands will form on Corwin street.

Officials Probe Prof's Death

Pennsylvania State College officials launched an investigation Tuesday into the death of Prof. Ernest J. Teichert, husband of the former Bonnie Rader of Circleville.

America Denies Proposed A-Bomb Use On Slavs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—State Department officials strongly denied today that the United States was prepared to use the atom bomb on Yugoslavia in 1946.

The charge was lodged before the United Nations by Dr. Julius Katz-Suchy of the Polish delegation. Its suddenness caught American officials in Washington off-guard and an answer was postponed temporarily.

However, after some hours of study, the State Department, through a spokesman, denounced the charge as "preposterous."

Katz-Suchy charged that the atom bomb already was in Europe ready to be dropped during the crisis of September, 1946, when the fighter planes of Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia downed two American transport planes.

At that time, the United States presented Tito with an ultimatum. It demanded, within a matter of hours, that the bodies of five airmen killed in the crash of one plane, be returned with full military honors and that indemnity for their deaths be paid.

Tito's government promptly complied with this demand.

Pickaway County draft board officials have run into their first thorny problem regarding draft eligibility of James R. Reichelderfer, 24, of Laurelville.

West Asks Council Lift Berlin Ban

4-Power Negotiation Wanted; Reds Imposing New Restriction

PARIS, Oct. 19—The three Western Powers called upon the UN Security Council today to bring about a lifting of the Soviet Berlin blockade so that four-power negotiations can be resumed.

U. S., British and French delegates renewed their contention that further talks are impossible under the present state of duress.

He pointed out, however, that final attempts by the West to obtain a full solution met with failure.

Truman Wooing Dixiecrats In Dedication Talk

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 19—President Truman today told dissident Southern Democrats that the party split over civil rights cannot be healed by "walking out in a huff."

Mr. Truman's message to States' Rights revolutionists was contained in an address dedicating a monument to Presidents Jackson, Polk and Johnson who were born in the "State of Carolina."

The speech was one of two the President scheduled in Raleigh today in a bid to bring the rebellious Dixie vote back into the party fold.

The monument-dedicating address was billed as "non-political," and contained no direct reference to the party split.

But Mr. Truman referred to Jackson as a man who knew "that the way to correct injustice in a Democracy is by reason and debate, never by walking out in a huff." The President added:

"TO ATTEMPT to correct injustice by disunion is to apply a remedy that is worse than the disease."

The chief executive also told the South that men and women

NANKING, Oct. 19—Nearly half a million Nationalist troops were deployed today along a new defense line in Central China to combat the menace of Chinese Communist forces.

Ex-Localite Is Indicted

Harboring Felon Is Accusation

Thirty-year-old divorcee Lillian Weaver, former Circleville resident, was under indictment Tuesday for shielding her lover, an accused child slayer, from the law.

The Franklin County grand jury in Columbus indicted her Monday on a charge of harboring a felon. It has been more than 10 years since the jury has returned such a charge.

Miss Weaver's lover, Dwight D. Tudor, a handsome filling station attendant, confessed to killing 14-year-old Mary Ann Page of Springfield Oct. 3.

The one-time Columbus police department record clerk said Tudor told her of the slaying before he was arrested at the Columbus police station Oct. 5. She also said she helped her lover burn a bloody auto blanket, seat cushion and steering wheel cover.

AT THE TIME of her arrest, Miss Weaver said:

"I just didn't believe him when he told me he had killed a girl in Springfield. I'm still in love with him. He has never done anything to me and I don't know why I should be turned against him."

The woman also said Tudor returned the night of the slaying with his 22 calibre rifle which he placed in her Columbus home.

Miss Weaver was graduated by Circleville high school about 10 years ago, has been in this city little since then.

New Texas City Blast Kills 4

TEXAS CITY, Oct. 19—The death toll in the explosion which rocked Texas City last night rose to four today with the deaths of three of the injured.

Sixteen other persons were being treated today for burns and injuries.

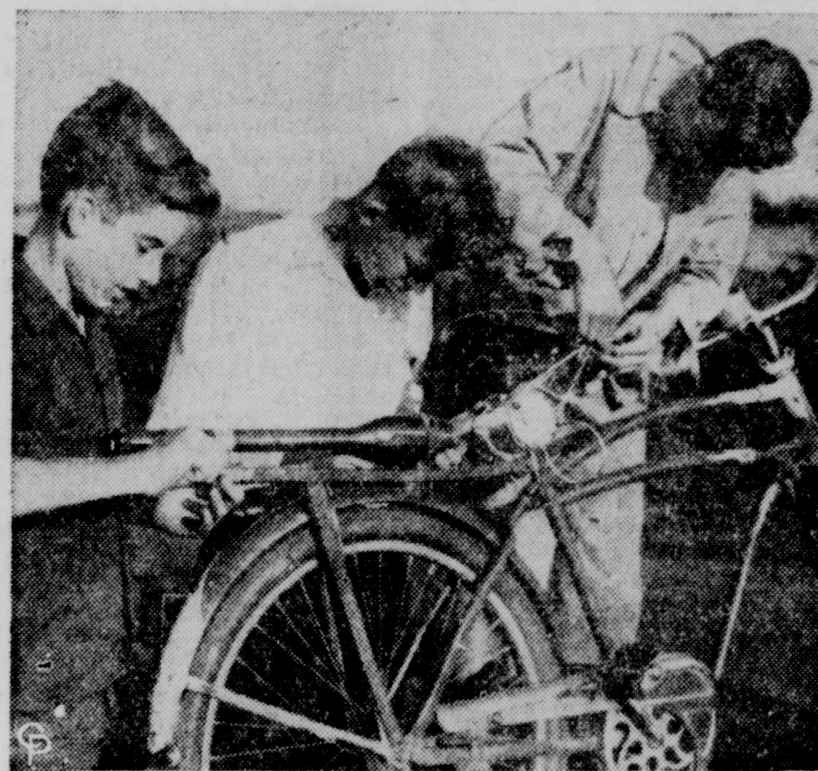

Officials of the Texas City fire department theorized that a spark from an automobile engine apparently ignited a pocket of highly volatile gas which was blown from the refinery over a nearby highway.

Clarence Stewart, taxicab driver, was killed almost instantly by the concussion and resultant flash fire.

The explosion sent many residents of the Gulf Coast city into near panic. Rumors spread rapidly that the blast-fire holocaust of 18 months ago, in which more than 500 died, was being repeated.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19—The city of Cleveland protested today against the proposed rate increase requested by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Cleveland was the seventh large city in the state to file such an action before the State Utilities Commission.

PAST POSTWAR PEAK

1949 Net Farm Income To Drop 10 Pct., Belief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—The government cautioned farmers today that their 1949 net incomes may be 10 percent below the $16.5 billion estimated for this year.

The Agriculture Department's latest report on the farm income situation said the golden harvest reaped by the nation's food producers "probably has passed its postwar peak."

It added, however, that the increasing tempo of expenditures for national defense and foreign aid "affords considerable assurance" that demand for farm commodities will continue strong, at least through the first half of 1949.

In the current year, farmers already are facing an eight percent drop in net income—the first such decline since 1938.

In terms of income for the average farm family, this means a cut in "take home" pay from $2,987 in 1947 to $2,748 this year. In 1949, a further drop of 10 percent would take the figure down to $2,472.

The government earlier forecast that total receipts from farm marketings would fall off next year while the prices of most of the things farmers buy would continue to rise. But this is the first time the situation has been described on a dollars-and-cents basis.

As for total 1948 income, receipts from marketings are expected to total close to $30 billion. Government payments of $275 million—12 percent less than last year—farm products consumed at home, and the rental value of farm dwellings may bring this up to $34.6 billion.

That would be roughly $100 million below the 1947 gross income.

At the same time, farm operating expenses have gone up seven percent since last year and may amount to $18.1 billion in 1948. The department said:

"Because 1949 production expenses in total are not likely to be noticeably lower than in 1948, any decline that may occur in farmers gross income will be fully reflected in their net income."

"If production costs should remain unchanged at the 1948 level, a decline of only five percent in gross income would mean a drop of more than 10 percent in net income."

The official prediction is that prices for most crops are likely to average somewhat lower in 1949 and that marketings of many important crops will be smaller.

The brightest spot in the strike picture was Eastern France and the Moselle region where Christian and Socialist unions led 40 percent of the miners back to work.

Both Sides Guilty Of Violations

Mediator Lashes Trouble-Starters

PARIS, Oct. 19—The United Nations Security Council ordered a new immediate cease-fire in Palestine today after Arabs and Jews alike were branded guilty of truce violations.

The council voted unanimously, 11 to 0, for immediate halting of hostilities in the embattled Southern Negev region.

The vote was taken on the insistence of Russia, Syria and Egypt that the gravity of the Negev situation required immediate energetic action.

The balloting came on the heels of an Egyptian announcement that it already had accepted a UN order to cease fire which the state of Israel rejected yesterday.

Authoritative Israeli circles indicated that the new cease-fire now will be accepted by the Jewish state without question.

Since the Egyptians already have said they will accept it appears certain that the Negev fighting will be halted. Prospects appear good for a strong new truce and an invigorated UN grip on the Palestine situation through a truce supervision network.

ALL SIDES in Paris seem to feel that one of the worst crises in the Holy Land has been safely overcome by the decisive council action.

The statement that "both sides are guilty of violation" in the Holy Land fighting was made by Acting Palestine Mediator Dr. Ralph Bunche, (Continued on Page Two)

Reds Distribute White Paper On Berlin Dispute

PARIS, Oct. 19—Russia distributed in United Nations circles today its versions of notes exchanged in the Berlin dispute just prior to Security Council reconsideration of the blockade problem.

Members of the Soviet delegation handed out the booklet entitled "The Soviet Union and the Berlin Question" which apparently is a Russian white paper issued by the Moscow foreign office.

No comment was contained in the booklet which listed documents and memoranda exchanged with the Western powers beginning Feb. 13 and through Oct. 3.

Previously the Russians were reported to have given oral assurances of Soviet "good will" in efforts to settle the Berlin dispute while still seeking to play for time.

THIS DEVELOPMENT came amid indications that "neutral" members of the Security Council (Continued on Page Two)

Indian Summer Promised

thelss generally fairly close to actualities, the keeper of the records said Circleville had been having Squaw Winter the last couple of days.

He boldly predicted Indian Summer just ahead. He based his prediction that out yonder in Wyoming, the Dakotas and Minnesota, there was warm weather. It is heading this way, he said, and should be here in a "couple of days." He could see no rain clouds in the immediate future.

Circleville's streets, nicely paved and well drained, are a great asset to the Pumpkin Show. It could rain cats-and-dogs all morning and the show could easily go on in the afternoon and evening.

STAGED anywhere else than the streets—out at the fairgrounds, for instance—a good shower would call for hip boots and a goose-drowner would write fins to the whole thing.

Colville, who has seen about all of the previous 41 Pumpkin Shows, recalled that it rained, snowed and then the sun came out hot enough to discard topcoats one opening day of Pumpkins Show.

Weather would not play too big a part in deciding whether the Pumpkin Show would be a success. But it would have nuisance value.

Little else than Gabriel's horn could stop the annual Fall frolic. The thing had grown to unstopable proportions.

Monday night found Pumpkin Show officials, although very tired, struggling through polishing touches for the affair.

Some were absent; those that were present wished they were home in bed. The meeting was short and to the point.

Everything appeared to be in readiness. There were a few snarls in plans. But there always had been. And they always had been ironed out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Colville was having trouble with the late arrival of tents for display booths. J. I. Smith found traffic hampering the carpenter work on booths. Dan McClain was getting requests from more bands that his committee thought the show could handle. But he planned to squeeze in all corners. Ned Dresbach found that the finances were "a little slow but the same as usual."

JOHN HEISKELL wondered if there would be enough mobile public address systems on hand to meet demands from two or three events going at the same time. He also wanted to be sure prizes were on hand for his bubblegum-blowing and balloon-bursting contests.

Girls from the Sigma Phi Gamma sorority, which is carrying a huge load this year, were finding more entries than they expected in the amateur and baton-twirling contests.

The Rev. Elisha Kneisley reported all was in readiness for the baby parade.

Truman Eberly was assured sufficient parking space near the high school would be available for busses carrying visiting musicians entered in the band festival.

He also was told Police Chief William McCrady, who has enough worries as it is, would clear streets for bands at march.

George Schaub said he had received confirmation from the chief judge for his grain and fruit exhibits—Harold Thayer, Fairfield County Agent.

Flower show and baked goods chiefs were smiling confidently; their departments were well-oiled, ready to go.

Indications that the lodge and industrial parade would keep George Fishpaw busy—it looked Monday evening as if the queue would run more than five miles in length.

The entire city was beginning to bulge.

The hour was near when the whole lid would blow and the annual Pumpkin Show would be rolling at full blast.

Burglars Fail To Enter Store

Confidential reports will be returned to the city health department from the Columbus health office.

Union Official In Slander Suit

TOLEDO, Oct. 19—A $53,000 slander suit was on file today in Lucas County common pleas court against Richard T. Gosser, international vice-president of the CIO-United Automobile Workers union.

The suit was filed late yesterday by Ollie J. Petord, former editor of the official CIO Toledo publication, the CIO-Union Journal, who resigned from his post several months ago.

The petition charged that Gosser accused Petord of resigning his union position to work with management, after having learned union operational methods.

3 Head Cattle Are Stolen

Theft of two heifers and a bull valued at $900 was reported to Pickaway County sheriff's office Monday afternoon by Ed Prushing of Commercial Point.

Prushing said he was aroused about 2 a. m. Monday by a noise near the barn but at that early hour was not able to locate the disturbance.

Deputy Sheriff Vern L. Pontious said he found hoof prints along the road where the cattle had been led from the pen to a truck where they apparently were hauled away.

Traffic Lights To Get Repairs

City service department Tuesday began making most of Pumpkin Show Week by removing four Court street traffic light for repairs.

Both Sides Guilty Of Violations

American Negro diplomatic expert.

He hurled his charge following Egypt's announcement of compliance.

After the unanimous agreement to order the cease-fire, the council, with Russia and the Ukraine abstaining, voted 9 to 0 to adopt the recommendations of Bunche for restoring conditions which prevailed in the Negev prior to the fighting.

The council also approved unanimously a British-Chinese resolution directing Arabs and Jews to take certain actions to facilitate truce observance.

The chief recommendations by Bunche include:

1. Withdrawal of both parties from positions not occupied at the time of the recent outbreak of fighting.

2. Acceptance by both parties of truce conditions governing the access of convoys to the Negev.

3. Agreement of both parties to undertake negotiations through the UN on outstanding problems concerning the Negev and to permit the stationing of permanent truce observers in the Negev.

The British-Chinese resolution was approved after Jacob Malik of Russia inserted a provision that the UN observers be held to making objective reports to the Security Council.

ON HEARING the Egyptian cease-fire announcement, Bunche interrupted to declare he wished to correct any "misleading impression" resulting from Arab statements. He said:

"It is entirely inaccurate to suggest that the Arabs extend full cooperation with the truce while the Jews withhold. Both sides are guilty of violation."

Faris El-Khouiri Bey, in a charge to the council, declared that the Jews are pressing a "predetermined" attack in the Negev.

Aubrey S. Eban, representing Israel, accused Egyptian forces of systematically violating the principal of free access by the Jews to the Negev region.

Eban also suggested there is "a certain lack of sympathy" by UN truce observers for the Jewish determination to keep the Negev within the boundaries of Israel.

The United Nations body, after considering the Holy Land situation, will move on to the Berlin blockade.

In all probability the council will direct both Israeli forces and Arabs to adhere to the previously ordered truce.

The Israelis yesterday turned down a UN request for a cease-fire in the embattled Negev region but declared a willingness to meet with Egyptian representatives to settle differences peacefully.

DR. BUNCHE issued a lengthy report to the Security Council last night in which he declared:

"It would seem clear that military action of the last few days has been on a scale which could only be undertaken after considerable preparation and could scarcely be explained as a simple retaliatory action for an attack on a convoy."

The fighting erupted last week after an Egyptian attack on a Jewish convoy.

Dr. Bunche's statement infuriated Israeli circles. They cited it as a tendency to fix all blame on them for the Negev hostilities.

MISS BETTY MINER, clerk of the board, said the men will be sent back to Fort Hayes Friday for the examinations. The question now is whether Reichelderfer is eligible.

Although married, Reichelderfer was sent along with the others on the basis that he was single when he registered here and that his status would remain unchanged.

Miss Miner brought the thorny question before local board officials when she learned that Army officials conducting the examinations told

He hurled his charge following Egypt's announcement of compliance.

After the unanimous agreement to order the cease-fire, the council, with Russia and the Ukraine abstaining, voted 9 to 0 to adopt the recommendations of Bunche for restoring conditions which prevailed in the Negev prior to the fighting.

The council also approved unanimously a British-Chinese resolution directing Arabs and Jews to take certain actions to facilitate truce observance.

The chief recommendations by Bunche include:

1. Withdrawal of both parties from positions not occupied at the time of the recent outbreak of fighting.

2. Acceptance by both parties of truce conditions governing the access of convoys to the Negev.

3. Agreement of both parties to undertake negotiations through the UN on outstanding problems concerning the Negev and to permit the stationing of permanent truce observers in the Negev.

The British-Chinese resolution was approved after Jacob Malik of Russia inserted a provision that the UN observers be held to making objective reports to the Security Council.

BOUGHT ANY MINES LATELY?

A-Experts Claim Thorium Not Being Purchased Yet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 — You might just as well relax, citizens. That thorium you have on the old homestead may save the place from the sheriff—but then, it's just as likely that it won't.

And if you're trying to peddle the place for more than it normally would be worth, on account of its monazite possibilities, you might just as well quit. Only time will tell about thorium and monazite and the like.

Or so says the Atomic Energy Commission, after being bargained with letters on the subject.

It seems that some people have been working the old skin-game on the thorium subject, while others have been honestly interested in what it might mean. All of which has put the AEC on something of a spot.

For a long time now, among scientists, thorium has been recognized as a potential source of fissionable material. That being so, it was placed under the control of the Atomic Energy Commission back in 1946. But nobody said much about it at the time, and nobody seemed to give it any particular thought.

DURING those days, the only thing mentioned as fissionable material was uranium, and radio comedians had themselves quite a field day with the name.

Also, a lot of erstwhile gold-mine salesmen started to peddle uranium stocks to the widows and orphans. As a result of the unintentional advertising, it became the biggest phoney stock in trade of the year.

But, as time went on, it became apparent that there weren't too many uranium mines around for the asking. Thus, both the legitimate and the phoney trade suffered a slowdown. Uranium mines—like the Brooklyn Bridge—weren't selling so well any more.

It was some time early this year—April or thereabouts—that the Atomic Energy Commission publicly announced that it was technically possible to derive Uranium 233 from thorium.

It seemed, according to the AEC announcement, that all they had to do was utilize a method similar to the one by which plutonium was derived from uranium—if that means anything to you.

Well, since then the AEC boys have had a tough time of it. It seems that the principal ore from which the element thorium is obtained is known as monazite, and there is considerable monazite scattered hither and yonder across the country.

You can imagine what has happened to thorium (nee monazite) since then. It has become strictly the uranium understudy in the quick sale racket, not to mention the inroads it has made in the legitimate transaction markets—if there be such.

As a result, the Atomic Energy Commission has felt forced to issue a clarifying statement on the subject. It admits that a "strict control of exports and a complete record of domestic movements of thorium-bearing materials, including monazite ore, is maintained by the commission, pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act of 1946."

But it goes much farther.

IT SAYS that "the usefulness of thorium and its principal source in nature, monazite ore, so far as the commission's program is concerned, is limited for the present time to research. Accordingly, the only thorium the commission purchases is for experimental purposes, chiefly in the form of thorium salts, and the commission has no purchase program for monazite ore as such."

Also, the commission says that "solving the many complex research problems in the way of the large scale utilization of thorium may take a decade or two. Until these problems have been solved, thorium will not be in large demand for use in nuclear reactors."

In short, citizens, it seems that neither thorium nor the monazite ore from which it generally comes is in particular demand these days. And if you've just been sold a mine containing same, it may be you're out of luck.

'Love Potion' Case Based On Exhaust Pipe

MEDINA, Oct. 19—Clark Hill based his bid for life today on a broken exhaust pipe entered as evidence in Medina's "love potion" murder trial.

The 19-year-old former Ohio State university student's defense attorneys maintain that it was the rusty exhibit, broken in two and patched with a sleeve of tin, which emitted the fumes that killed Jeanette Weimer, 17, drive-in carhop, after an April 10 tryst in Hill's car.

State highway patrolmen testified yesterday that Hill gave all the appearances of a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning when he drove onto the Medina barracks lawn the day after the Mogadore girl's death.

Patrolman Victor J. Ledinsky said Hill "appeared to be suffering" before and after hospitalization. He said he thought he had solved the Weimer girl's death when he found the exhaust pipe

Usher Stabbed In Theatre Row

CINCINNATI, Oct. 19—The father of a youth who was ejected from a theatre in Lockland, Cincinnati suburb, was wanted for questioning today in the slaying of a theatre usher.

Gaitha Wilson, 24, the usher, was stabbed to death, Lockland police reported, by William Thomas, whose son was ejected from the theatre following a disturbance.

Police said the elder Thomas irate over the treatment of his son, approached the usher and stabbed him without warning.

He testified that when he started Hill's car, fumes immediately were detected in the car.

Survey Shows Housewife Prefers Buying Meat In Self-Serve Marts

TOPEKA, Kans. Oct. 19—The average housewife would rather buy fresh meat from a refrigerated self-service showcase than haggle with the butcher. Sleeter Bull, writing in the November issue of Capper's Farmer, tells why this new method of retailing meat is catching on.

"Interest in the self-service method by both retailers and packing company sent a questionnaire to its sales organization and got the names of 178 meat retailers operating on a 100 percent self-service basis.

"Some were missed and the list does not include stores, probably much greater in number, which sell meat both ways.

"Here's the way a large grocery company in Illinois set up a self-service meat department," the story continues. "The meat case is 30 to 50 feet long, has an open top with a tilting mirror above. Meat is wrapped in cellophane and displayed on coils in the case. An air-conditioned cutting room, just behind the case, has a raised floor so customers can see meat processing. A butcher and a helper cut the meat with a power saw and two uniformed girls wrap and seal in cellophane, weigh and label the cuts. The girls also keep the meat case supplied.

selecting meat. Some were glad to avoid the bottleneck at the meat counter during rush hours. Others did not like to ask the butcher for a pound of hamburger or stew meat when their neighbors were asking for a porthouse steak.

"Most store owners also like the idea," the article points out. "It was found that self-service usually increases sales. Most increases were from 20 to 40 percent and were largest in offal cuts, cold cuts, smoked meats, poultry and especially cheaper cuts.

"Of the 50 retailers who reported to the packing company on costs, 32 stated that merchandising costs were lower, 9 said they were higher. The packing company believes that 100 percent self-service of meats will continue to grow.

"The amount of freezer storage space in the modern household refrigerator is increasing. So is the sale of small home freezers. This should boost the amount of frozen meats marketed in self-service food stores."

We just bought some oil for your grandson

Once in a while you may hear someone give the opinion that the oil business is shortsighted—that it's out to get what it can "while the getting is good."

We thought of this, and smiled a little wryly to ourselves, the other day as we reviewed the $98,000,000 we've spent during the last five years for the purchase, discovery and development of underground crude oil reserves.

For some of that oil we've never seen... and chances are, we won't see all of it... for 10, maybe 20 years... when your youngest grandson will be a motorist.

Today Sohio's crude oil "proven reserves" are producing about 30,000 barrels of oil per day... or only a third of our refinery requirements. In addition to oil produced from its own wells, Sohio must purchase 65,000 barrels of crude oil per day from others.

If oil is to be kept flowing at a rate that will meet

fully the expanding requirements of this generation and the next, expenditures for new oil reserves will continue to be large. For the business of producing oil is an endless one of exploration, drilling, pumping... exploration, drilling, pumping. And today, the wells must go deeper... and the costs go higher.

During the last five years, Sohio has put a total of $140,000,000 into new oil wells, pipelines, plants and equipment. This is a huge investment for a medium-sized company marketing mainly in one state. Earnings have not been enough to cover this needed expansion so we have borrowed more money and sold additional stock to provide the additional funds to do a big job... a job we believe you want done.

The better we live, the more oil we need... and to make sure we get it here in Ohio, Sohio is putting new money to work in record amounts.

The 19-year-old former Ohio State university student's defense attorneys maintain that it was the rusty exhibit, broken in two and patched with a sleeve of tin, which emitted the fumes that killed Jeanette Weimer, 17, drive-in carhop, after an April 10 tryst in Hill's car.

State highway patrolmen testified yesterday that Hill gave all the appearances of a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning when he drove onto the Medina barracks lawn the day after the Mogadore girl's death.

Patrolman Victor J. Ledinsky said Hill "appeared to be suffering" before and after hospitalization. He said he thought he had solved the Weimer girl's death when he found the exhaust pipe

Usher Stabbed In Theatre Row

CINCINNATI, Oct. 19—The father of a youth who was ejected from a theatre in Lockland, Cincinnati suburb, was wanted for questioning today in the slaying of a theatre usher.

Gaitha Wilson, 24, the usher, was stabbed to death, Lockland police reported, by William Thomas, whose son was ejected from the theatre following a disturbance.

Police said the elder Thomas irate over the treatment of his son, approached the usher and stabbed him without warning.

He testified that when he started Hill's car, fumes immediately were detected in the car.

Survey Shows Housewife Prefers Buying Meat In Self-Serve Marts

TOPEKA, Kans. Oct. 19—The average housewife would rather buy fresh meat from a refrigerated self-service showcase than haggle with the butcher. Sleetor Bull, writing in the November issue of Capper's Farmer, tells why this new method of retailing meat is catching on.

"Interest in the self-service method by both retailers and packing company sent a questionnaire to its sales organization and got the names of 178 meat retailers operating on a 100 percent self-service basis.

"Some were missed and the list does not include stores, probably much greater in number, which sell meat both ways.

"Here's the way a large grocery company in Illinois set up a self-service meat department," the story continues. "The meat case is 30 to 50 feet long, has an open top with a tilting mirror above. Meat is wrapped in cellophane and displayed on coils in the case. An air-conditioned cutting room, just behind the case, has a raised floor so customers can see meat processing. A butcher and a helper cut the meat with a power saw and two uniformed girls wrap and seal in cellophane, weigh and label the cuts. The girls also keep the meat case supplied.

"WOMEN GIVE some interesting reasons why they like this system. A few mentioned they were not insulted by discourteous butchers. Several remarked that they could take their time in selecting meat. Some were glad to avoid the bottleneck at the meat counter during rush hours. Others did not like to ask the butcher for a pound of hamburger or stew meat when their neighbors were asking for a porterhouse steak.

"Most store owners also like the idea," the article points out. "It was found that self-service usually increases sales. Most increases were from 20 to 40 percent and were largest in offal cuts, cold cuts, smoked meats, poultry and especially cheap cuts.

"Of the 50 retailers who reported to the packing company on costs, 32 stated that merchandising costs were lower, 9 said they were higher. The packing company believes that 100 percent self-service of meats will continue to grow.

"The amount of freezer storage space in the modern household refrigerator is increasing. So is the sale of small home freezers. This should boost the amount of frozen meats marketed in self-service food stores."

CIRCLEVILLE REXALL DRUGS

We just bought some oil for your grandson

Once in a while you may hear someone give the opinion that the oil business is shortsighted—that it's out to get what it can "while the getting is good."

We thought of this, and smiled a little wryly to ourselves, the other day as we reviewed the $98,000,000 we've spent during the last five years for the purchase, discovery and development of underground crude oil reserves.

For some of that oil we've never seen...and chances are, we won't see all of it...for 10, maybe 20 years...when your youngest grandson will be a motorist.

Today Sohio's crude oil "proven reserves" are producing about 30,000 barrels of oil per day...or only a third of our refinery requirements. In addition to, oil produced from its own wells, Sohio must purchase 65,000 barrels of crude oil per day from others.

If oil is to be kept flowing at a rate that will meet

fully the expanding requirements of this generation and the next, expenditures for new oil reserves will continue to be large. For the business of producing oil is an endless one of exploration, drilling, pumping... exploration, drilling, pumping. And today, the wells must go deeper... and the costs go higher.

During the last five years, Sohio has put a total of $140,000,000 into new oil wells, pipelines, plants and equipment. This is a huge investment for a medium-sized company marketing mainly in one state. Earnings have not been enough to cover this needed expansion so we have borrowed more money and sold additional stock to provide the additional funds to do a big job... a job we believe you want done.

The better we live, the more oil we need... and to make sure we get it here in Ohio, Sohio is putting new money to work in record amounts.

SMALL FARMER WONDERING

Farm Bureau's New Plush Offices Open In Capital

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—Any farm boy feels kind of funny nowadays in the new Washington headquarters of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

It's strictly a plush layout, with deep carpets, modernistic furniture and softly tinted walls. One step inside and you get the impression that you're in the presence of big business—with two capital Bs.

And, with approximately a million and a half members, it is big business. Moreover, its purpose here in Washington is to represent those farm members in matters both legislative and executive.

The new layout results from changes brought about by Iowa's Allan B. Kline who succeeded Alabama's Ed O'Neal as Farm Bureau president this year. The old place was crowded, tended to get dusty and was a long haul from Capitol Hill.

Whether the new Farm Bureau regime will better represent the membership in these times remains to be seen. Certainly there's no denying the rumors that a new government regime is moving into Washington!

BUT ONE particular farm boy, who has several times crossed both big ponds and often seen Paree, still finds himself uncomfortable in the midst of the new Farm Bureau atmosphere here, and, in a way, it's ironic.

Out in Central Illinois, one Washington correspondent is a part-owner of a farm which has been in the family since long before the big elm tree by the pump was only a riding switch stuck carelessly in the wet soil by a thirsty great-grandfather. Out there, one of his brothers is a fulltime farmer and the other brother farms as much as he can with one hand while teaching vocational agriculture with the other.

Both belong to the Farm Bureau. And for good reason.

When the Farm Bureau was formed, more than a generation ago, those brothers were walking three-quarters of a mile to Martin school—named for another ancestor who had donated the land.

After supper at night, the brothers and their sister heard their father talk about this new federation which gave farmers the power of united strength without robbing them of their individual independence. To him, both points were important, for his was a small farm, although adequate by standards in that section.

It was the Farm Bureau of which he spoke, and he was a charter member. In the years that followed, he showed his boys how it often dispensed with the costly middleman by operating on a sort of cooperative basis in marketing and the like. Through it, they sold milk and crops for a better price.

THEY BOUGHT seed and gasoline and kerosene and got a year's-end rebate which represented what otherwise would have gone to the middleman.

They even bought insurance that way. Today the correspondent still carry two country life policies with annual premiums so low that some insurance salesmen inevitably swear he is mistaken until they look up the rate charts themselves. Only Farm Bureau members, or their families, could get such policies.

As time went on, the father, who died a decade ago, spoke of the Farm Bureau's political benefits. He pointed out how, by virtue of its large membership, it was becoming a force to be reckoned with in elections, and how, on legislation involving tariffs and the like, it could even make itself felt in the nation's tal.

But always he spoke in terms of small, home-owning farmers, or renters who were working the soil and bucking the seasons to finally buy farms for themselves.

And among such people, he was a leader, a leader so great that on the day he died, neighbors stood in the orchard west of the house and asked the old man's sons what they should do now.

So if you're a former farm boy, and the son of a far-seeing farmer, you stand in the plush headquarters of the American Farm Bureau Federation today, and you hope that—despite all this new big business atmosphere—the organization your father pioneered still represents the small farmer, and not the huge thousand-acre agricultural firms. But, as you hope, you also wonder.

ENGINEER IN CHARGE of the Republican Presidential candidate's special train in the Illinois area, Leo Tindle washes up at Evansville after Gov. Dewey reportedly called him a "lunatic." Dewey made the remark at Beauport, Ill., after Tindle slowly backed up the train while a number of persons were on the tracks about the rear platform. Tindle said he was not particularly angry about the epithet. "I think as much of Dewey as before," he said, "and that's not much." (International Soundphoto)

Baruch Calls For Continued Atom Research

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Financier and Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch called today for continued research to make atomic energy available for peaceful use, despite the fear of war.

Baruch told the New York Herald Tribune forum last night: "I do not believe another war is imminent, and I hope it will be averted. But the fear remains."

Baruch, who drafted the American plan for control of atomic energy, added: "Fear of war must not freeze peaceful atomic use."

Baruch blamed Russia's leaders for blocking agreement on the control of the atom, and warned that the U. S. must continue manufacturing atomic bombs.

Speaking on the forum theme of "Our Imperiled Resources,"

Baruch said that perhaps the greatest task of conservation is to restore and conserve man's faith in his ability to govern himself. He said:

"If THAT is lost, all is lost. It is essential, if we are to discipline ourselves to halt the waste of natural resources, to educate our children to live in greater harmony with the land, to preserve the vigor of peaceful enterprise in the shadow of war."

Police Hunt Three Jewelry Store Bandits

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19—Columbus police searched today for three experienced, cold-blooded bandits who bound and gagged Jeweler Frank Tschappat and held him up for nearly $8,300 in cash and merchandise.

Tschappat told police the trio stole three suitcases from him, in which they carried off $300 in cash and from $6,000 to $8,000 in diamonds and watches from his North Columbus store.

He said two men entered his store about 3:30 p. m. Monday and asked to look at a watch. He said he became suspicious, but his relief at the sight of a third "customer" proved short-lived when the man produced a gun and said:

"This is a stickup. Do as I tell you and you won't get hurt."

Tschappat said one of the men took his keys and locked the front door of the shop, located in a line of busy small shops while another forced him to lie on the back room floor.

HE WAS bound and gagged with adhesive tape while two of the men ransacked a safe, several showcases and the cash register.

The jeweler quoted his guard as saying: "Don't make a move or I'll kill you."

He said another of the gunmen asked: "Is he unruly? If he is I'll kill him now."

The head of the house carries his business checking account here—the lady of the home has her personal account—and the children have started special interest accounts. Ours is the family bank.

Military Trophy, Gear Displays Are Scheduled

Pickaway County Manpower Committee and the Army and Air Force have teamed together to sponsor two exhibits in Pumpkin Show.

First of the exhibits will be a display of war trophies captured by Pickaway County servicemen in World War II. The trophy exhibit will be seen in the Milliron and Martin barbershop window.

Included in the display will be a large Nazi flag, Japanese and German rifles, pistols, sabers, bayonets, helmets and other field paraphernalia.

Each of the trophies will be labeled with the veteran's name and from which area of operations it was taken.

Other exhibit will be a showing of motorized equipment used by the Army in the war. Included will be a duck, squad car, bomb carrier and bomb, and other mechanized Army equipment. It will be spotted on West Main street near Scioto.

County Business Booming, State Tax Aide Shows

The weekly sales tax report from the state treasurer's office showed receipts for the week ended Oct. 2, in Pickaway County to be gradually increasing following a resounding slump in mid-September.

As of Oct. 2, sales tax intake by the state amounted to $5,419.40 compared to the previous week's collection of $5,053.32, representing an increase of $366.08, Treasurer Don H. Ebright said.

The business trend in Pickaway County was clearly visible in comparing total collections by the state for the first nine months of 1948 against the same period of last year.

Ebright said business in this county has increased in volume to the extent the state has collected $167,541.16 so far this year mirrored to $145,151.53 in the first nine months of 1947.

At the close of Oct. 8, the Ohio state treasury showed a balance of $260,344,641.38 with $13,161,872 listed as expenditures.

Farm Escapes Surrender Selves

LORAIN, Oct. 19—Lorain authorities returned two cold and shivering escapees back to the Osborn state farm near Huron today.

The two called the Lorain police station from a downtown restaurant last night and asked to be picked up. Inspector Paul Cleaver, in charge of the police radio room, said a phone voice asked him:

"Want to pick up a couple of escaped trustees from a prison farm?"

"Who are you?" asked the inspector.

The voice boomed back: "I'm one of the guys and hurry."

The two arrested were Robert Ward, 26, of Germantown, and Richard Elkins, 23, of Wellston.

FBI Enters Fugitive Hunt

TOLEDO, Oct. 19—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents entered the search today for William Easterday, alias William Thompson, former president of the now bankrupt White Construction Company in Toledo.

A fugitive warrant charging Easterday with violating the Stolen Properties Act was issued by John G. Barone, U. S. Commissioner in Toledo.

Easterday is one of six men who were indicted by a Lucas County grand jury on charges growing out of the collapse of the White firm.

Kiwanians Get Twin Program: Politician And GE Lamp Film

Circleville Kiwanis Club Monday evening had a dual program.

Dr. Richard Samuel, program chairman, scheduled two events, pared them down and spliced the two together for a standard-length program.

First part was a talk by Roscoe Walcutt of Columbus, Pickaway representative to the state senate.

A Columbus attorney, Walcutt gave a rapid-fire 10-minute discussion on "what a state representative is supposed to do to earn his salt."

Walcutt declared that contrary to the belief of many voters, representatives do pay attention to letters they receive from the grass roots.

He declared, however, that form letters, apparently written by one person or committee and signed by a hundred or so voters, generally are ignored. Solons also generally ignore letters which "damn the representative and contain little point."

But, he said, letters which appear to be sincere, while often containing misinformation, always receive the attention of a representative.

SPARKLING with humor, Walcutt's statements included the following: "We have a two-party system except this Fall I understand we are going to have four parties. But we Republicans hope to remedy that situation by installing the one-party system—which is a good thing as long as it is our party. Of course if it were the other party, it would be an undesirable thing.

"My vote has never been bought and what is worse, no one has ever offered to buy it." The Kiwanis program was concluded with the showing of a motion picture prepared by the General Electric Co.

Shown by Clay Vaughn, GE official in the new Circleville plant, the film was titled "History of Fluorescence."

It detailed the growth of artificial light from the early cave man's torch, through the candle era, to the kerosene lamp and then into the incandescent lamp. It showed the research GE has made in the development of the fluorescent lamp, including both the conventional lamp and the GE Slimline. The latter is to be manufactured here.

This same film is to be shown to the public in the offices of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. here throughout Pumpkin Show Week.

A window display at the utility office has been set up showing the makeup of a GE Slimline lamp.

Total 1 1/2 BILLION DOLLARS

1 1/2 Billion Dollar Road Block!

RAILROADS MUST OPERATE around the clock every day and night of the year.

Although they know this, leaders of 16 railroad unions are demanding a five-day, Monday through Friday, week for one million railroad employees.

They want 48 hours pay for 40 hours work—in itself a 20% wage increase.

They also demand a minimum of 12 hours pay for any work performed on Saturdays, and 16 hours pay for any work performed on Sundays and holidays.

On top of all this they want an additional increase of 25c an hour for every employee!

You'd Pay the Bill!

Summing up these demands, they mean that these union leaders seek to force the railroads to give one million employees an annual raise which would average $1500 per employee!

The total cost of this would be no less than 1 1/2 billion dollars per year, which is more than twice the expected net income of the railroads this year.

You'd pay the bill, because if these increased costs are forced on the railroads,

must have still further rate and fare increases.

Demands Unreasonable

These employees have had substantial raises during and since the war. Their average weekly earnings are higher than the average weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries. They have more job security than the average worker in American industry. They also enjoy paid vacations, a retirement system and other advantages more generous than the average worker receives.

In contrast with the demands of these 16 unions, which add up to the equivalent of 48c an hour, the Conductors and Trainmen recently settled their wage request for an increase of 10c an hour.

Railroads Run for Everybody—Not Employees Alone

The railroad industry must serve not one but many groups—producers, businessmen, shippers, passengers and the general public—night and day, every day of the year. These unions are proceeding in utter disregard of this important difference between railroads and other industries. Industrial plants can be shut down over weekends and holidays, but freight, mail, express and passengers must continue to move. Everybody who enters railroad employment knows this.

Strike Threat

On September 18, 1948, the leaders of these 16 unions began taking a strike vote. But the threat of a strike will not alter the opposition of the railroads to such unreasonable demands!

WESTWARD HO!

THE recent Census Bureau check of population figures reveals that Americans are still leaving the East and the Midwest for the Far-Western states.

California has joined New York and Pennsylvania in the ten million population group and is expected to add seven new representatives to Congress after the next census. Oregon and the state of Washington have made almost as great proportional increases in numbers during the past eight years. Notable growth has also taken place in Arizona, Nevada, Utah, and Texas.

Unlike earlier migrants westward, who sought land for farming or cattle-raising,
these new hordes are part of a move toward industrial de-centralization which has reached large proportions during recent years. The huge airplane factories which mushroomed during the war years are still going strong, along with some outfits producing steel and allied lines.

This scattering of industries and workers will undoubtedly make a change in the social and economic pattern of the country.
Regional lines may be more indefinite
when the Western population is so thoroughly diluted with Easterners and Southwesterners. Prejudices should be modified by the close relationships of groups from different parts of the country, and the political balance may show a change. Going west has become a routine and matter-of-fact procedure, however, and its former aura of romance and adventure has largely vanished.

PROGRESSIVE PROSPECTS

ONLY one hundred Progressives are running for the 435 seats in the House of Representatives, says C. B. Baldwin, the Wallace campaign manager, and 11 for the 32 expiring senatorships. Lack of Progressive candidates in other districts enhances the chances of Democratic candidates to be elected. Some Progressive nominees are running in the South not against Truman supporters but against Dixiecrats.

The Progressives apparently are finding,
as did their earlier namesakes led by Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, that it is a hard job to build up a national party. The great trouble is to get strong local candidates
with a corresponding local organization.
Without them a party fades away, particularly in non-presidential years with no
prominent man at the top of the ticket.

Whatever the outcome this Fall, President Truman is not likely to run again. The Wallace feud against him will then have no further point. That fact and the failure of the Progressives to sow their seed very widely make it not unlikely that future elections will see non-Communist Progressives returning to the Democrats.

Navy Planning Jet Hop | Air Test Would Reveal
Via Carriers to Hawaii | Speed Reinforcing Isles

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The Navy has planned a dramatic test of air power in which jet fighter planes will hop from the west coast to Hawaii in a few hours by using two aircraft carriers as intermediate landing fields in mid-ocean.

The hop may take place before this reaches print, or it may be postponed for a while. When it is staged, it will show the nation's military planners how long it would take to reinforce the United States outpost which suffered the crippling Japanese sneak attack of World War II.

Jet fighters, without special equipment, cannot make the 2,400-mile jump non-stop. Navy planners are sure they could do it one-stop, but they will take no chances in the initial test.

One thing holding up the project is fear that it will be classed as a publicity stunt aimed at matching the headlines the Air Force got when it flew jet fighters to Germany.

High brass considered such publicity so undesirable that the Navy public relations branch was not told about the plan. When it found out, it insisted to the high admirals that press association representatives be taken along when the flight is made.

IOWA WORRY-SPOT FOR GOP—The Republicans are worried about losing a Senate seat in Iowa, where incumbent George Wilson was considered a shoo-in until recently.

Running against Wilson, who has been ill and out of the limelight, is former Senator Guy Gillette, a sturdy campaigner. He is stressing Wilson's consistent conservative voting record to Iowans who for years supported the anti-Wall Street Smith Brookhart in the Senate.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

Albert Einstein, who has in recent years spoken with easy alacrity on all sorts of subjects, including domestic politics and foreign policy of the United States, is opposed to rearmament. He is apparently a One Worder. At any rate, this is what he wrote and what Cord Meyer Jr., of the United World Federalists, made available:

"The proposed militarization of the nation not only immediately threatens us with war; it will also slowly but surely destroy the Democratic spirit and the dignity of the individual in our land. The assertion that events abroad force us to arm is wrong. We must combat it with all our strength."

Let us look at that paragraph closely:

1. "Proposed Militarization." Who has proposed that? Who wants it? We are faced by a colossal enemy and we are forced to defend ourselves. Actually, this country wants peace. It has spent about $17,000,000,000 since the war to get a peace.
But our enemy refuses us peace; yet the worthy professor calls ordinary steps in national defense, "Proposed Militarization."

2. "Democratic spirit and dignity of the individual." Would the democratic spirit survive conquest by Soviet Russia here
any more than it has survived in Poland, Rumania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia? Does Einstein mean to say that if we are not able to aid and even defend the western countries, the democratic spirit can survive in France or Italy or Great Britain?

The professor is a refugee in this country from Nazi oppression. The United States has provided him with a sanctuary where he can work and study and think in freedom. Americans are pleased that this country can offer him the opportunity for continued study.

Yet, as one reads this statement, it is impossible not to wonder whether the learned professor does not believe that he has, in some manner, honored the United States in coming here. For he does not believe in us but in what he calls a "supra-national organization." Well, we have a supra-national organization, the United Nations.

What has the United Nations been able to do to safeguard the peace of the world
the democratic spirit of the dignity of the individual? What has that supra-national organization been able to do to lessen slave labor, to free the millions of slaves in Siberia and Turkestan? What has UN been able to do to maintain the treaties written since the war? What did it do about Hungary or Czechoslovakia? What is it now doing about Berlin?

Einstein further says:
"Actually, our own rearmament, through the reaction of other nations to it, will bring about that very situation on which its advocates seek to base their proposals."

From that we must assume that Einstein blames the United States for the present warlike atmosphere in the world.

He seems to adopt the position that if the United States disarmed, Soviet Russia would disarm.

That is like the Russian proposal concerning Korea, which is that if we withdrew our troops and they withdrew their troops, there would be no troops in Korea.

crowded off the road, and pedestrians object to them on the sidewalks. Have the

Condition Needing Operation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOME disorders can be treated only by operation. One of these is known as anal fissure, a condition in which a crack occurs in the lining membrane of the bowel at a point near its opening. In every case this cracking of the membrane is accompanied by swelling, inflammation and infection. Sometimes ulcers form in addition, and in such instances hemorrhoids or dilated veins
also are present.

In the operation for correction of this condition all of the diseased tissues are cut away.

Admitted to Hospital

Candidates for such surgery are usually admitted to the hospital about 12 hours before the time for the operation, in order that they may be prepared properly. The first step in this preparation is to give the patient an enema of salt solution
six to eight hours prior to the time set for the operation. Nerve-quieting drugs are also given at this time; approximately an hour before the operation other preparations are given for the same purpose.

The operation is often performed under spinal anesthesia since this gives the greatest relaxation to the muscles around the site of the operation, but it can be performed if the patient is put to sleep in the ordinary way with a general anesthetic.
At the time of the operation, a gauze pack is placed in the wound.
After the operation, it is usually necessary to give the patient some strong pain-relieving drug.

The gauze pack in the wound is removed 48 hours after the completion of the operation and, thereafter, the wound is inspected daily.

Liquid Diet
The patient is given a liquid or soft diet. Efforts are made to see that he takes plenty of fluids the first 24 hours following the operation. Each night the patient is given liquid petrolatum until the wounds
are completely healed.

The patient, as a rule, can be discharged from the hospital between two and four days after the operation, and complete healing usually takes place within four weeks. It is necessary to make a rectal examination five to seven days after the operation and to repeat this examination about once every five days to make sure that scar tissue does not form to block the lower opening of the bowel.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: Will you please tell me
the effect of infected teeth on the system?

Answer: Germs and their poison may be taken up by the blood from infected teeth and carried to other parts of the body, where they produce infection and damage to the tissues.

Infected teeth should be treated
by the dentist and removed, if necessary.

MARRY for MONEY

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN
THE TALL elderly man said,
"Gail? It is Gail, isn't it?" He smiled and made no move toward her. He added, "Absurd as it sounds, I'm your father." He waited a moment and added, "You can't accept that, can you? In the circumstances, I don't blame you.
You look very white. Please sit down."

It might have been his own drawing room.
She sat down, folding her hands;
one within the other. She said, "If you are my father—you don't expect that I—"

"Will fall on my neck with filial raptures? No, not at all. It isn't blood," he said, "but association that makes the bond."

She said, "It's hard to believe that you are my father. The last I knew of you was when a—a friend of yours came to my mother and said you were very ill in a Chicago hospital. She gave me money for you. We did not hear again. She wrote, finally, to the hospital. No one of your name had been there at the time."

He said pleasantly, "I wasn't there, under that name. I have found it convenient to use a number of names. Do you recall my alleged friend's name?"

"No."
"I didn't get the money," he said regretfully, "but then I was never fortunate in my choice of friends! I was ill in Chicago. I recovered. Gail, is your mother living?"

She said harshly, "No."
"I see. I thought not. I inquired for her, after I asked for you. Will you tell me—?"

"No. How do I know who you are?" she cried. "What proof have you?"

"Look in the mirror," he said softly, "the same shaped face, the same modeling of the head." He took out a battered wallet and gave her a picture and she looked at it, blindly. It was small and badly executed and showed her as a baby, in her mother's arms. She had its duplicate upstairs in her desk in the living room.

"You could have obtained this,
somehow?" she said.

"That's so. From someone dying next me in the ward, or under the wheels of a car, a drunken man thrown in jail overnight... which has been occasionally my lot," he said mildly, "or for vagrancy... but I did not so obtain it. What do you know of me?" he asked.

"Very little." She set her jaws to keep her mouth from shaking.
Her hands were cold, and she felt the sweat spring out on her upper lip and along her hairline.

He said, "I met your mother in New York—how old are you now —twenty-two, twenty-three? She was the daughter of a Kansas physician. The town in which she lived was called Forden. Her father's name was Ralph Manning;
her mother's, Jane. I forgot her maiden name. Your mother was the only child. She came to New York to visit a friend who had moved there. Her name was Dorothy Sampson. She lived in an apartment on the Upper West Side.

The exact street escapes me. I had met her brother casually and came with him and others to the apartment. Your mother and I were married in New York... I was at that time working in a bank.
I may add I have been a number of things before and since—an actor, in a road company, the manager of a small theater in the West, a hotel clerk—and I have held other positions less respectable."

She said, shaking, "You could have learned all this, too."
"I could indeed," he said easily,
"but that, too, would be hard to prove."

She said, "My husband has tried to trace you."
"He isn't the first," said the tall man, amused. "But, at least,
I owe him nothing." He looked around the room. "You are very beautiful, and I may add, as fortunate a you are lovely."

She was silent, because there was nothing to say, and she was wretchedly unhappy. She had thought of it, very differently...
if they found him... she had thought of an old man and an ill
one. The first premise was absurd to begin with, for he was not old. He was, she thought, not more than fifty. She had believed that she would see that he was cared for, dutifully, if without forgiveness, because perhaps her mother would have wished it so,
having loved him for so long, no matter what he had done to her.
But now the picture changed. He was not old, he was not ill, and he was not, as perhaps she had also pictured, repentant.

He said, "I may add that I have been in San Francisco. I saw, long after its occurrence, the news of your marriage." He added, "Has anyone ever called you Gay?"

None but himself, when she was a baby. She could not recall it, but her mother had told her, a great many times. "I believe that he loved us," she would say. "I believe that he thought the world of you. 'Such a gay baby,' he said.
He called you Gay."

He watched her face change,
and went on, "Still someone, sentimental, and half delirious, might have told me that, too. Shortly before your mother and I—shall we say—parted company, I had a slight accident. Do you remember it?"

"When I was four my father deserted us. No, I don't remember."

"Of course not, at four." He laughed, his face relaxed and charming, despite the deep lines,
the unhealthy skin. "But perhaps she told you? She was always a backward rather than a forward looker, and very talkative. I came home one night, somewhat the worse for drink, as they say, and I stumbled on the roller skates of the child who lived across the hall.
I fell and cut my shin and perhaps it was that which made me determined to forsake domesticity.
There is always some deciding factor, often quite small. Did your mother ever tell you of that incident?"

WESTWARD HO!

THE recent Census Bureau check of population figures reveals that Americans are still leaving the East and the Midwest for the Far-Western states.

California has joined New York and Pennsylvania in the ten million population group and is expected to add seven new representatives to Congress after the next census. Oregon and the state of Washington have made almost as great proportional increases in numbers during the past eight years. Notable growth has also taken place in Arizona, Nevada, Utah, and Texas.

Unlike earlier migrants westward, who sought land for farming or cattle-raising, these new hordes are part of a move toward industrial de-centralization which has reached large proportions during recent years. The huge airplane factories which mushroomed during the war years are still going strong, along with some outfits producing steel and allied lines.

This scattering of industries and workers will undoubtedly make a change in the social and economic pattern of the country. Regional lines may be more indefinite when the Western population is so thoroughly diluted with Easterners and Southerners. Prejudices should be modified by the close relationships of groups from different parts of the country, and the political balance may show a change. Going west has become a routine and matter-of-fact procedure, however, and its former aura of romance and adventure has largely vanished.

PROGRESSIVE PROSPECTS

ONLY one hundred Progressives are running for the 435 seats in the House of Representatives, says C. B. Baldwin, the Wallace campaign manager, and 11 for the 32 expiring senatorships. Lack of Progressive candidates in other districts enhances the chances of Democratic candidates to be elected. Some Progressive nominees are running in the South not against Truman supporters but against Dixiecrats.

The Progressives apparently are finding, as did their earlier namesakes led by Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, that it is a hard job to build up a national party. The great trouble is to get strong local candidates with a corresponding local organization. Without them a party fades away, particularly in non-presidential years with no prominent man at the top of the ticket.

Whatever the outcome this Fall, President Truman is not likely to run again. The Wallace feud against him will then have no further point. That fact and the failure of the Progressives to sow their seed very widely make it not unlikely that future elections will see non-Communist Progressives returning to the Democrats.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Albert Einstein, who has in recent years spoken with easy alacrity on all sorts of subjects, including domestic politics and foreign policy of the United States, is opposed to rearmament. He is apparently a One Worlder. At any rate, this is what he wrote and what Cord Meyer Jr., of the United World Federalists, made available:

"The proposed militarization of the nation not only immediately threatens us with war; it will also slowly but surely destroy the Democratic spirit and the dignity of the individual in our land. The assertion that events abroad force us to arm is wrong. We must combat it with all our strength."

Let us look at that paragraph closely:

1. "Proposed Militarization." Who has proposed that? Who wants it? We are faced by a colossal enemy and we are forced to defend ourselves. Actually, this country wants peace. It has spent about $17,000,000,000 since the war to get a peace. But our enemy refuses us peace; yet the worthy professor calls ordinary steps in national defense, "Proposed Militarization."

2. "Democratic spirit and dignity of the individual." Would the democratic spirit survive conquest by Soviet Russia here any more than it has survived in Poland, Rumania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia? Does Einstein mean to say that if we are not able to aid and even defend the western countries, the democratic spirit can survive in France or Italy or Great Britain?

The professor is a refugee in this country from Nazi oppression. The United States has provided him with a sanctuary where he can work and study and think in freedom. Americans are pleased that this country can offer him the opportunity for continued study.

Yet, as one reads this statement, it is impossible not to wonder whether the learned professor does not believe that he has, in some manner, honored the United States in coming here. For he does not believe in us but in what he calls a "supra-national organization." Well, we have a supra-national organization, the United Nations.

What has the United Nations been able to do to safeguard the peace of the world the democratic spirit of the dignity of the individual? What has that supra-national organization been able to do to lessen slave labor, to free the millions of slaves in Siberia and Turkestan? What has UN been able to do to maintain the treaties written since the war? What did it do about Hungary or Czechoslovakia? What is it now doing about Berlin?

Einstein further says:

"Actually, our own rearmament, through the reaction of other nations to it, will bring about that very situation on which its advocates seek to base their proposals."

From that we must assume that Einstein blames the United States for the present warlike atmosphere in the world.

He seems to adopt the position that if the United States disarmed, Soviet Russia would disarm.

That is like the Russian proposal concerning Korea, which is that if we withdrew our troops and they withdrew their troops, there would be no troops in Korea.

The bicycle has long been one of the finest pieces of equipment in the world for boys and girls. But lately they are being crowded off the road, and pedestrians object to them on the sidewalks. Have the young no rights?

The Russians will have to face the realities of life some time—why not now?

Member Of Juvenile Research Bureau Addresses Study Club

Mrs. Troutman Hosts Meeting

William Stubbs of the Juvenile Research Bureau, Columbus, addressed members of Child Study Club Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Gladden Troutman of East Union street.

The speaker led a question and answer discussion from the topic "Behavior Problems". Stubbs cited two types of children: shy and withdrawn and aggressive and overbearing. He said "when delinquency occurs, it generally is found to be from an overbearing youth, child of a divorced couple or a separated home. Mental incompetence in parents, alcoholism in the home and mentally incompetent parents are direct promoters of delinquent children."

He told the women "prevention must come from the parents whose training and habits reflect in their children." Stubbs declared that "the Columbus Bureau's first step is to modify a child's social relations, then direct treatment."

Mrs. Kenneth Bell, a delegate to the Child Conservation League state meeting in Youngstown, submitted a report of that session.

The club voted to donate $5 toward the Pickaway County Children's Home booth during Pumpkin Show. Discussed also were plans for the information booth on the corner of Court and Main streets which the club will man during Pumpkin Show week.

Member Of Juvenile Research Bureau Addresses Study Club

Mrs. Troutman Hosts Meeting

William Stubbs of the Juvenile Research Bureau, Columbus, addressed members of Child Study Club Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Gladde Troutman of East Union street.

The speaker led a question and answer discussion from the topic "Behavior Problems". Stubbs cited two types of children: shy and withdrawn and aggressive and overbearing. He said "when delinquency occurs, it generally is found to be from an overbearing youth, child of a divorced couple or a separated home. Mental incompetence in parents, alcoholism in the home and mentally incompetent parents are direct promoters of delinquent children."

He told the women "prevention must come from the parents whose training and habits reflect in their children." Stubbs declared that "the Columbus Bureau's first step is to modify a child's social relations, then direct treatment."

Mrs. Kenneth Bell, a delegate to the Child Conservation League state meeting in Youngstown, submitted a report of that session.

The club voted to donate $5 toward the Pickaway County Children's Home booth during Pumpkin Show. Discussed also were plans for the information booth on the corner of Court and Main streets which the club will man during Pumpkin Show week.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Troutman, assisted by Mrs. Henry Helwagen and Mrs. Charles Walters.

Youth's Death Claimed Suicide

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19—The Cuyahoga County coroner's office was expected today to return a verdict of suicide in the death of 16-year-old Hugh Mellon of Cleveland.

According to police, Mellon was despondent over censure from his parents and from the family of a girl friend after he took the girl to Ann Arbor last weekend to witness the Northwestern-Michigan football clash.

A note signed by Mellon was found in the 10-year-old's bedroom stating that "one-half hour after I write this I will die."

To the many friends and neighbors of our beloved sister, the late Mrs. Annette Miller, we wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks for their kindness and sympathy during her illness. We wish to thank the Rev. Wilson for words of consolation, the singers at the services, all those who sent flowers and the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home.

Big Game Is Army At Cornell

Battle Is Tough As Week's Best

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The unbeaten powerhouses of Army and Cornell clash head-on in Ithaca Saturday in one of the east's outstanding games.

The winner of this struggle probably will join Penn and Penn State, the two other unbeaten squads in line for the eastern title.

Penn has a comparatively easy task this week, or so it would seem. The victoryless Middies of Navy visit the quakers in Philadelphia and George Munger's charges will be far from brotherly.

Penn State plays host to a Michigan State eleven that could very well prove a spoiler. Michigan State extended Notre Dame in their opener and the Irish won by the narrow margin of a single touchdown.

But the Nittany Lions are expected to keep their slate clean.

The bulk of interest will be centered on the Cadet-Big Red encounter. Gridiron observers are anxious to find out just how good this Cornell team is, and by Saturday sundown they should know.

AT FIRST glance, and from the Ithacan standpoint, the question should be transposed since Cornell holds a 40-6 win over Harvard while Army boasts only a 20-7 win over the Cantabs.

Coach Earl Blaik's team is fast, runs and tackles hard. Witnesses at the Army-Harvard game thought they were seeing a return of the mighty Doc Blanchard-Glenn Davis era as they watched Fullback Gil Stephenson and Halfback Bobby Stuart cavort inside and outside.

Arnold Galiffa is a slick operator at quarterback and his ball-finding and engineering of the T has been superb.

The West Pointers have an all-important depth of reserves both in the line and in the backfield and Coach Blaik is able to substitute offensive and defensive teams.

Lefty James' Big Red team has as many good backs as Army. James will match Jeff Fleischmann, Frank Miller, Hilory Chollett, Paul Girolamo and Pete Dorset against any combination Blaik can muster.

Dorset is the brains behind the Cornell T. Little Pete runs the attack well, is rated as good a passer as Galiffa and is considered one of the best kickers in the east.

The Ithacan forward wall is strong too. Particularly effective are Hank Frost, 225-pound tackle and Joe Quinn, left guard.

Wilmington Due For Show Of Yearlings Oct. 24

So that all those interested in trotters and pacers may view the annual consignment of yearlings to be sent to the Harrisburg sale, Fairmeade Farms (W. J. Galvin and Son) and GreenAcres Farms (Dr. H. K. Bailey), Wilmington, announced Tuesday that "Show Day" will be held on Sunday, Oct. 24.

The announcement came about as a result of many people asking the horse breeders to repeat the show held last year. Many were unable to attend then, but were interested, they said.

The first showing will be made this year at Dr. Bailey's GreenAcres Farms on the old Cuba pike, starting promptly at 2 p. m. All the yearlings to be sent to the sale and the stallions at this farm will be led out for the inspection of the crowd, these in-

Indians Show American Leaguers How To Set New Attendance Marks

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—More than 11 million fans—a flabbergasting all-time record high—watched American League teams in 1948.

The war-whoopin' Cleveland Indians showed the others how. Official league figures issued in somewhat startled tones by AL President Will Harridge yesterday showed that the Indians, in 77 home games attracted 2,620,627 of the total 11,150,099 fans who saw junior loop teams in action.

Not only that, but the Tribe, at home, led in single-game and night game attendances, too, setting records in those departments as well as in their overall total.

All told, five American League teams established new seasonal highs for home attendance, while only two—Washington and Chicago—drew fewer patrons in 1948 than in 1947.

This could be attributed, in the main, to the '48 pennant fight, which was the ding-dongest chase in all the American League's history, ending as it did

NEVER GETS RUFFLED

Backers Placing Citation Greater Than Man O'War

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Never before has there been a horse unanimously acclaimed as at least the equal of Man O' War. This honor goes to Citation. Among his backers are many who insist he is even greater than America's original greatest horse.

Trainer Ben Jones, head of the vast Calumet racing stables, and his son, Jimmy, who sees to the actual training of the colt which in two years of racing has won 22 or 24 starts. His losses were as a two-year-old.

The elder Jones won't get in when other horses are mentioned by name. He dismisses the subject by saying:

"Citation could beat any horse I ever saw at any distance—sprinting or over a route of ground."

This must include Man O' War, considering that Ben has been around race tracks nearly 50 years.

UP TO NOW, the speeding son of Bull Lea has won $820,250 and cluding Gay Song 1:59 4/5, Attorney 3: 2/3 and Direct Brewer 4: 2/4.

IMMEDIATELY after the showing at GreenAcres the crowd will go to Fairmeade Farms, near Wilmington, where in addition to the yearlings consigned to the Harrisburg sale the stallion, Chief Counsel, 3: 1/5 7/8, world's champion three-year-old pacer and already an outstanding sire; Wilmington 4: 1:59 1/2, another great colt pacer and sire, and Willglow 2:05 1/2 will be shown.

It is probable, too, that a few of the better known broodmares at the farms will be shown.

There will be no admittance charge and nothing sold, the show being held to give all those sufficiently interested an opportunity to view the yearlings, and to pass upon their merits, while many no doubt will want to make a "mental guess" on what they will bring when they face the auctioneer, as they did last year.

J. Donald Bailey again will be the announcer, and souvenir catalogs of the yearlings and the farms' stallions will be given out.

In the first playoff in the league's annals. In drawing more than two and a half million fans, not counting the World Series, when they drew an all-time single-game record crowd of 86,288, the Indians beat their former mark of 1,521,978 by more than a million. They also bettered considerably the former major league mark of 2,265,512 set in 1946 by the New York Yankees.

The Yankees, too, bettered that mark, attracting 2,373,901 customers. Detroit, Boston and Philadelphia also showed new season's attendance records.

Under the arc-lights, the league's total paid attendance for 188 night games was a record 4,451,492 with Cleveland's 1,240,891 customers for 26 after-dark games the individual high total.

In all, the American League registered an increase of 1,664,030 paid admissions over last year's 9,486,069 total. The league's pre-season all-time high was 9,621,182, set in 1946.

Fesler Says Wisconsin Is Tough

OSU '11' Not In Michigan Class

COLUMBUS, Oct. 19.—Ohio State should be a good solid favorite against Wisconsin's Badgers in Ohio Stadium this weekend, but don't try to get Buck Coach Wes Fesler to buy any of that.

Fesler's coaching seat is an uncomfortable one at best. The Bucks, despite their three-and-one record, aren't in the Michigan or Notre Dame class by any means.

Thus, Fesler has a good healthy respect for each opponent as it comes along, and Wisconsin is no exception.

"They're better than their record indicates," says Esco Sarkinen, who scouted the Badgers three times. He goes on to point out that the Badgers were out-classed by only one of three opponents to beat them, California.

Wisconsin outgained both Indiana and Yale in losing and defeated Illinois. Sarkinen claims only "inopportune bad breaks and injuries to key players" have held the Badgers back.

EVEN MORE than the scouting charts, an incident at last Saturday's Badger-Yale game has Fesler wary. That, of course, was the unfurling of a "Goodbye Harry" sign by Badger rooters, some of whom have been gunning for the scalp of Coach Harry Stuldreher.

The Bucks have haunting visions of the Badgers turning to with a will to vindicate their chieftain, and that might not be pleasant for the next Wisconsin foe—which happens to be Ohio State.

Wisconsin has nine sophomores among its first 22 squadmen. However, experience is good in the backfield, and the Badgers have last year's All-Western Conference center in the person of Bob Wilson.

The Bucks didn't practice yesterday, but they did spend a profitable afternoon studying pictures of their Indiana victory.

"We still kicked away a lot of opportunities," was Fesler's terse comment.

The Bucks came through the Indiana game without serious physical mishap and should be at their best peak of the year this week. Even Pete Perini, held out of the Hoosier game, is ticketed for service this week.

Dempsey Protege Moans Defeat

CINCINNATI, Oct. 19.—Jack Dempsey's protege, Joe Wieden, today was moaning over losing a Cincinnati fight he apparently was winning points until the referee decided his split eye couldn't take any more punishment.

Wieden's opponent, Heavyweight Walter Hafer of Maysville, Ky., was awarded the fight on a technical knockout in the next-to-the-last ninth round.

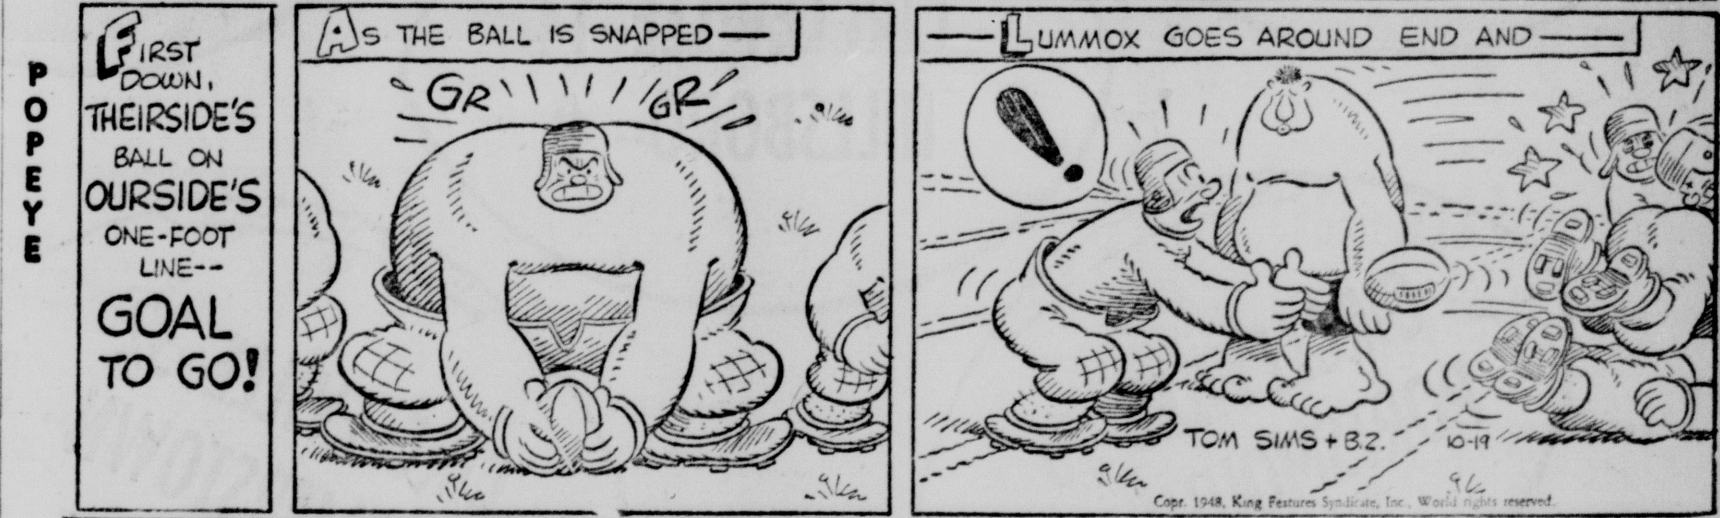

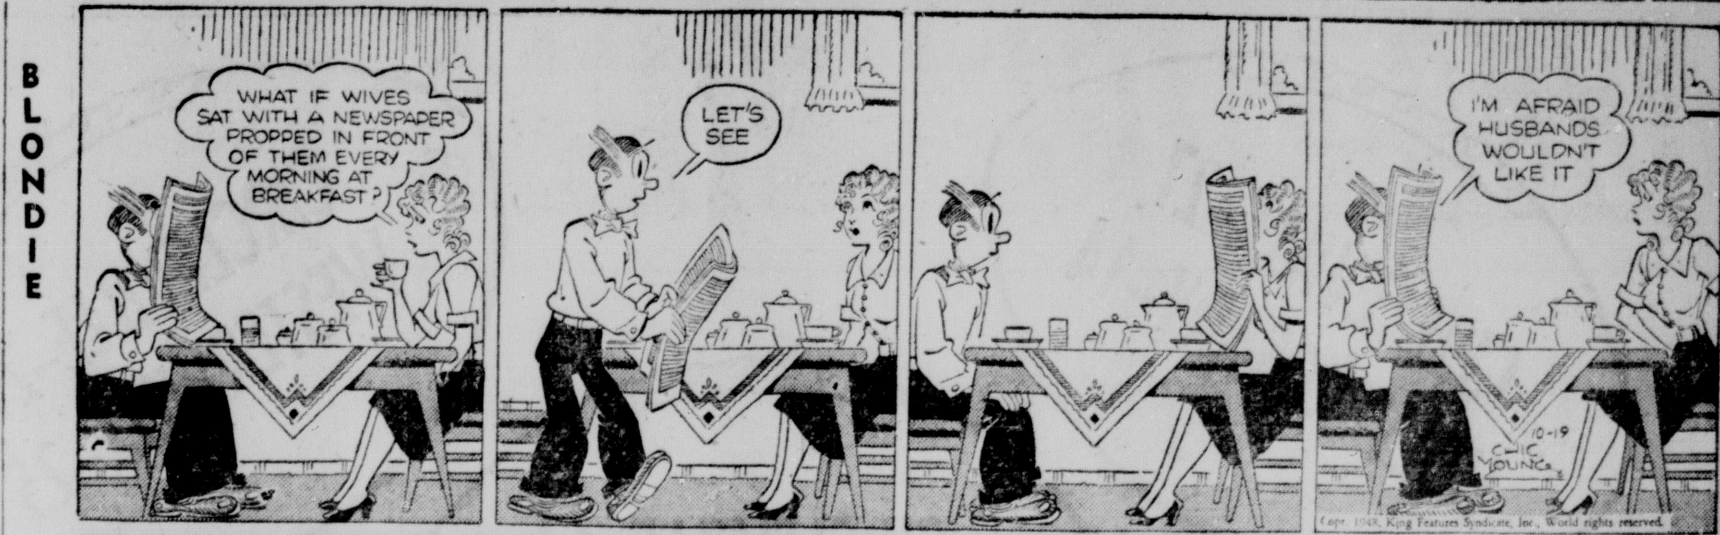

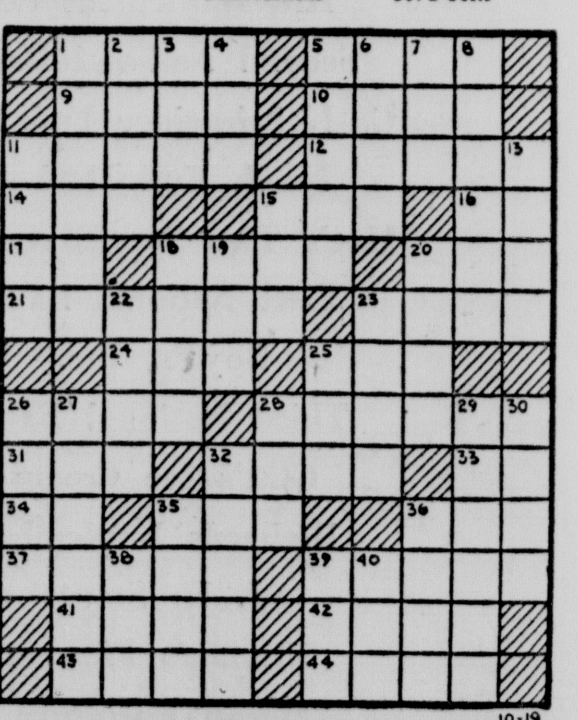

The Austrian boxer lost the battle although he knocked down Hafer twice in the second round.

announced yesterday Downs' appointment and the acceptance of the college as a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.
